

Norwich Bulletin and Courier 123 YEARS OLD

MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for publication of all news dispatches...

CIRCULATION WEEK ENDING SEPT. 6 10,274

POUNDING PATRIOTISM.

That the peace treaty would be ratified by this country there has been no question. That it would contain a league of nations provision has not been doubted...

In his recent statement Chairman Hays of the republican national committee pointed out the fact again that the treaty will be ratified but that the welfare and independence of this country will be safeguarded by certain reservations.

After the experience this country has had with pro-Germanism it may be surprising that it is yet to be found, and still it ought to be realized that it is not going to be put down without giving it constant and thorough attention.

From the known attitude of members of the senate it is certain that reservations will be insisted upon with a number of democrats, who have been hard and fast supporters of the administration.

The present appeal that is being made to the people of the country, Chairman Hays well says it is "an effort to beat into submission the thoughtful and unanswerable he has encountered and there are reasons for believing that he is right when he declares that at present he is only pounding against a stonewall of patriotism which has already become impregnable and is daily increasing in width, strength and height."

PLAYGROUND WORK. The people of this city have good reason to be interested in the display of work accomplished by the children of the city at the playgrounds the past summer.

No one can overlook the fact that the playgrounds association is rendering an invaluable service in maintaining the grounds and providing for efficient supervision.

EDITORIAL NOTES. The man on the corner says: A mouthful of words doesn't always mean a head full of ideas.

From this talk about left, right and center socialists, one might suppose that they were getting ready for a football game.

September must have heard those who registered such a tremendous kick against the terrib spell that it unexpectedly furnished.

As anxious as the cabinet members are to resign because of small salary, there always seem to be enough willing to take their places.

With the government getting ready to sell its stock of prunes sharp rivalry between the boarding house keepers can be expected.

There, will be no surprise that a Cleveland grand jury has recommended jail terms for profiteers for it will agree with public opinion.

THE OUTLOOK FOR CROPS. Just how difficult it is to tell what we are going to get from early-conditions are not only in the crop that the country is well illustrated by the way in which the estimated wheat yield has fallen, the way in which our corn crop is going to exceed last year's though falling below the amount needed and a drop in the amount of oats to be harvested.

When South Africans pelt home rule advocates with eggs, they are either blessed with an enviable surplus or else they are creating a shortage.

What would happen to the president's trip in case action should be taken on the treaty report before he had completed his speaking tour?

It is useless to try to find fault with the president for wearing a straw hat on his western trip. The season isn't over yet and anyway that is a great American privilege.

As was expected President Wilson is drawing big audiences but, again as expected, he is drawing them because a chance to see and hear the president is afforded.

When the Bulgarians make protest against the reports of the atrocities caused by them in Thrace, it will be quickly taken for granted that those people were only fooling.

It is not an easy thing to make traffic regulations, but it is a decidedly different matter to make such tinkering bring about desired results or satisfy the operators of vehicles.

It must not be expected that the whole trouble is going to be eradicated by the bringing down of the price of foodstuffs. There are other things, however, that people have to buy.

HIS FATAL DAY

"Don't speak to me," warned the discolored man who was having a chocolate soda by himself in a corner. "I'm a human blight bearing destruction in my path. Step inside my aura at your peril!"

"Shoot," said his friend, who proceeded to sit down, anyway. "I have the kind of a gun in the world," went on the blighted one, "but I have raged up and down the country today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"Somehow, after that I didn't want any lunch. The thing was getting on my nerves. I was afraid to buy anything. I spoke to any one, do anything, and I got the blues. I had a doctor charged victims of my innocent presence was too much to bear, so I went home early. I found my wife turning around in front of the mirror in a new gown and when she asked me how I liked it I was obliged truthfully to say it was an outrage, as she was wearing a cheap dressmaker in the next room, of whose presence I was unaware, backed up her seissors and cut the dress. She said—'I appreciated her, she said—and my wife assures me that nowadays one has to be careful. She said—'I am a new sewing woman as she has of gathering a painful of diamonds off the stringing machine at back yard. Somehow she seems to lay to rest this one up against me. So there wasn't any place to go and I came home. Well, if they bring me a soda that looks as poor as yours,' said his friend, "there's another victim added to the list of those who have been shot by that mixed them will be fired as fast as I show them to the boss."

"I stopped in at my brother-in-law's office and passed through the outer-most room there was a new girl at the desk with a peachy complexion and a perfectly good young man sitting on the corner and they were conversing. Quite naturally I spoke to Mark 'New girl, friend of yours?" I inquired. "Who's her friend?" "Whereupon Mark turned back and pounded the desk, arose and walked to the door, spoke to the cashier and returned all in one breath, he told me vehemently. No wonder young Mr. Snow and the equally young Mr. Frost were doing a good business for him—they had earned their salt for a month and all because they were pushing their own terms on the side and neglecting their employer—very well, the end of the week for them—they were discharged. No apologies, sir—he was promptly obliged for the information, I hastened out.

"I stopped in at my brother-in-law's office and passed through the outer-most room there was a new girl at the desk with a peachy complexion and a perfectly good young man sitting on the corner and they were conversing. Quite naturally I spoke to Mark 'New girl, friend of yours?" I inquired. "Who's her friend?" "Whereupon Mark turned back and pounded the desk, arose and walked to the door, spoke to the cashier and returned all in one breath, he told me vehemently. No wonder young Mr. Snow and the equally young Mr. Frost were doing a good business for him—they had earned their salt for a month and all because they were pushing their own terms on the side and neglecting their employer—very well, the end of the week for them—they were discharged. No apologies, sir—he was promptly obliged for the information, I hastened out.

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"I stopped in at my brother-in-law's office and passed through the outer-most room there was a new girl at the desk with a peachy complexion and a perfectly good young man sitting on the corner and they were conversing. Quite naturally I spoke to Mark 'New girl, friend of yours?" I inquired. "Who's her friend?" "Whereupon Mark turned back and pounded the desk, arose and walked to the door, spoke to the cashier and returned all in one breath, he told me vehemently. No wonder young Mr. Snow and the equally young Mr. Frost were doing a good business for him—they had earned their salt for a month and all because they were pushing their own terms on the side and neglecting their employer—very well, the end of the week for them—they were discharged. No apologies, sir—he was promptly obliged for the information, I hastened out.

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

"That girl," he said tartly, "has been here two weeks, during which time I believe she has put in about six hours' work. The rest of her time has been spent in heart to heart talks with her checked friend—and just this morning I told her if he came around once more that would end it. She thought I'd gone out. She's just a hussy. I hate to lose a lady her job. But Mark was right. I was upset that I totally forgot what I had come for and slunk out feeling like a criminal as I passed the girl. I don't dare to go anywhere else till I had given my jinx time to wear off, so I went today losing my mind, ordered cold meat and potato salad and when the waiter set down firmly before me some steaming sausage and cabbage I exploded mildly. He insisted hotly that it was sausage and cabbage I wanted because that was what I got—and I had served ten for the captain slooped down upon him and told him to get his pay and quit. I almost clung to the captain's arm in my horror. Visions of a sick wife and six starving children flared before my eyes, but there was no mercy. He was a stubborn waiter and this was the end of my career for coffee all day, ice cream where pie was ordered—and he went."

AN INTERNAL TREATMENT For Piles (Hemorrhoids)

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that their case was hopeless and that there was no remedy for their case. Go to your druggist and get an original bottle of Miro Pile Remedy, the discovery of a clever Ohio Chemist, that taken internally, passes unchanged through the stomach and intestines and thus reaches the source of the trouble, where, by its soothing, healing, antiseptic action, it first always attacks the internal piles, and then the external piles, causing them to heal and disappear.

It's positively marvelous how speedily it acts. Blessed relief often comes within a few days, and in cases that have resisted all previously known treatments really wonderful results have been accomplished. It is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years, and is now being widely pointed with its use can have their money refunded.

Dr. F. M. Smith of 2315 Broadway, Lorain, Ohio, says: "I gladly recommend Miro Pile Remedy for the treatment of hemorrhoids. I suffered for 18 years and tried everything that was recommended. I was tormented for years and was a constant sufferer with bleeding piles. I took a bottle of Miro and was entirely cured. Any sufferer using it will never regret it."

Dr. F. M. Smith of 2315 Broadway, Lorain, Ohio, says: "I gladly recommend Miro Pile Remedy for the treatment of hemorrhoids. I suffered for 18 years and tried everything that was recommended. I was tormented for years and was a constant sufferer with bleeding piles. I took a bottle of Miro and was entirely cured. Any sufferer using it will never regret it."

Dr. F. M. Smith of 2315 Broadway, Lorain, Ohio, says: "I gladly recommend Miro Pile Remedy for the treatment of hemorrhoids. I suffered for 18 years and tried everything that was recommended. I was tormented for years and was a constant sufferer with bleeding piles. I took a bottle of Miro and was entirely cured. Any sufferer using it will never regret it."

Dr. F. M. Smith of 2315 Broadway, Lorain, Ohio, says: "I gladly recommend Miro Pile Remedy for the treatment of hemorrhoids. I suffered for 18 years and tried everything that was recommended. I was tormented for years and was a constant sufferer with bleeding piles. I took a bottle of Miro and was entirely cured. Any sufferer using it will never regret it."

Dr. F. M. Smith of 2315 Broadway, Lorain, Ohio, says: "I gladly recommend Miro Pile Remedy for the treatment of hemorrhoids. I suffered for 18 years and tried everything that was recommended. I was tormented for years and was a constant sufferer with bleeding piles. I took a bottle of Miro and was entirely cured. Any sufferer using it will never regret it."

Dr. F. M. Smith of 2315 Broadway, Lorain, Ohio, says: "I gladly recommend Miro Pile Remedy for the treatment of hemorrhoids. I suffered for 18 years and tried everything that was recommended. I was tormented for years and was a constant sufferer with bleeding piles. I took a bottle of Miro and was entirely cured. Any sufferer using it will never regret it."

Dr. F. M. Smith of 2315 Broadway, Lorain, Ohio, says: "I gladly recommend Miro Pile Remedy for the treatment of hemorrhoids. I suffered for 18 years and tried everything that was recommended. I was tormented for years and was a constant sufferer with bleeding piles. I took a bottle of Miro and was entirely cured. Any sufferer using it will never regret it."

Dr. F. M. Smith of 2315 Broadway, Lorain, Ohio, says: "I gladly recommend Miro Pile Remedy for the treatment of hemorrhoids. I suffered for 18 years and tried everything that was recommended. I was tormented for years and was a constant sufferer with bleeding piles. I took a bottle of Miro and was entirely cured. Any sufferer using it will never regret it."

Dr. F. M. Smith of 2315 Broadway, Lorain, Ohio, says: "I gladly recommend Miro Pile Remedy for the treatment of hemorrhoids. I suffered for 18 years and tried everything that was recommended. I was tormented for years and was a constant sufferer with bleeding piles. I took a bottle of Miro and was entirely cured. Any sufferer using it will never regret it."

Dr. F. M. Smith of 2315 Broadway, Lorain, Ohio, says: "I gladly recommend Miro Pile Remedy for the treatment of hemorrhoids. I suffered for 18 years and tried everything that was recommended. I was tormented for years and was a constant sufferer with bleeding piles. I took a bottle of Miro and was entirely cured. Any sufferer using it will never regret it."

Dr. F. M. Smith of 2315 Broadway, Lorain, Ohio, says: "I gladly recommend Miro Pile Remedy for the treatment of hemorrhoids. I suffered for 18 years and tried everything that was recommended. I was tormented for years and was a constant sufferer with bleeding piles. I took a bottle of Miro and was entirely cured. Any sufferer using it will never regret it."

Dr. F. M. Smith of 2315 Broadway, Lorain, Ohio, says: "I gladly recommend Miro Pile Remedy for the treatment of hemorrhoids. I suffered for 18 years and tried everything that was recommended. I was tormented for years and was a constant sufferer with bleeding piles. I took a bottle of Miro and was entirely cured. Any sufferer using it will never regret it."

Dr. F. M. Smith of 2315 Broadway, Lorain, Ohio, says: "I gladly recommend Miro Pile Remedy for the treatment of hemorrhoids. I suffered for 18 years and tried everything that was recommended. I was tormented for years and was a constant sufferer with bleeding piles. I took a bottle of Miro and was entirely cured. Any sufferer using it will never regret it."

Dr. F. M. Smith of 2315 Broadway, Lorain, Ohio, says: "I gladly recommend Miro Pile Remedy for the treatment of hemorrhoids. I suffered for 18 years and tried everything that was recommended. I was tormented for years and was a constant sufferer with bleeding piles. I took a bottle of Miro and was entirely cured. Any sufferer using it will never regret it."

Dr. F. M. Smith of 2315 Broadway, Lorain, Ohio, says: "I gladly recommend Miro Pile Remedy for the treatment of hemorrhoids. I suffered for 18 years and tried everything that was recommended. I was tormented for years and was a constant sufferer with bleeding piles. I took a bottle of Miro and was entirely cured. Any sufferer using it will never regret it."

Dr. F. M. Smith of 2315 Broadway, Lorain, Ohio, says: "I gladly recommend Miro Pile Remedy for the treatment of hemorrhoids. I suffered for 18 years and tried everything that was recommended. I was tormented for years and was a constant sufferer with bleeding piles. I took a bottle of Miro and was entirely cured. Any sufferer using it will never regret it."

Dr. F. M. Smith of 2